Neanderthal Complex Behaviour Through the Lens of Faunal Resources Mariana Nabais, Ruth Blasco, 2025-12-05 Back in the 19th century when evolution was becoming established it was easy to assume that fossil meant primitive Such a notion continued and it implied that human complex behaviors were considered hallmarks of modernity and therefore exclusive to Anatomically Modern Humans AMH However in recent decades archaeology has demonstrated that both cognitively and behaviorally Neanderthals were no different from their contemporary African populations from which our ancestry mostly derives Additionally there have been an increasing number of examples where a single skeleton displays a combination of Neanderthal and AMH morphological characteristics Recent genetic studies have also confirmed these ideas of interbreeding showing that most current western world populations carry Neanderthal genes This genetic work has enhanced the growing body of evidence displaying Neanderthal complexity like their use of personal ornamentation their probable artistic representations in some Spanish caves or their adaptability to different resources and environments Zooarchaeological investigation is seen as key in detecting Neanderthal complex behaviors and can advance our understanding in one of the most debated issues in Paleolithic Archaeology The traditional idea of Neanderthals avoiding the coast and their marine resources or their disregard for small size prey like birds rabbits or tortoises has been put into question Multiple archaeological sites have shown evidence of intentionally broad diets in Neanderthals marked by the inclusion of a wide range of animals from very large to small game and the consumption of aquatic resources Zooarchaeology has been pivotal in providing evidence to disprove long standing notions of Neanderthal inability to not only adapt to changing environments but also their inability to procure process store and preserve faunal resources and even use these faunal resources as raw materials for tool production and ornamentation The goal of this Research Topic is two fold 1 to present new evidence that challenges the traditionally accepted models in which Neanderthals are seen as limited in their faunal resource use 2 to design new models in which ecological adaptability and faunal resource use trends can demonstrate Neanderthal's malleable and complex behaviors The scope of this collection will comprehensively compile the current developments and recent advancements in the field of zooarchaeology from Neanderthal contexts We welcome original research systematic review methods review hypothesis theory article types as well as mini reviews perspectives case reports and brief research reports Areas to be covered in this Research Topic may include but are not limited to Large and small prey use by Neanderthals e g food raw materials ornamentation Neanderthal provisioning strategies of faunal resources Neanderthal processing activities of faunal resources Neanderthal preservation and storing of faunal resources Neo taphonomic experimentations with faunal specimens Artificial Intelligence in Cardiothoracic Imaging Carlo N. De Cecco, Marly van Assen, Tim Leiner, 2022-04-22 This book provides an overview of current and potential applications of artificial intelligence AI for cardiothoracic imaging Most AI systems used in medical imaging are data driven and based on supervised machine learning Clinicians and AI specialists can contribute to the development of an AI system in different ways focusing on their respective strengths Unfortunately communication between these two sides is far from fluent and from time to time they speak completely different languages Mutual understanding and collaboration are imperative because the medical system is based on physicians ability to take well informed decisions and convey their reasoning to colleagues and patients This book offers unique insights and informative chapters on the use of AI for cardiothoracic imaging from both the technical and clinical perspective It is also a single comprehensive source that provides a complete overview of the entire process of the development and use of AI in clinical practice for cardiothoracic imaging The book contains chapters focused on cardiac and thoracic applications as well more general topics on the potentials and pitfalls of AI in medical imaging Separate chapters will discuss the valorization regulations surrounding AI cost effectiveness and future perspective for different countries and continents This book is an ideal guide for clinicians radiologists cardiologists etc interested in working with AI whether in a research setting developing new AI applications or in a clinical setting using AI algorithms in clinical practice The book also provides clinical insights and overviews for AI specialists who want to develop clinically relevant AI applications Modern Trends in Diatom Identification Gabriel

Cristóbal, Saúl Blanco, Gloria Bueno, 2020-05-28 High resolution images of phytoplankton cells such as diatoms or desmids which are useful for monitoring water quality can now be provided by digital microscopes facilitating the automated analysis and identification of specimens Conventional approaches are based on optical microscopy however manual image analysis is impractical due to the huge diversity of this group of microalgae and its great morphological plasticity As such there is a need for automated recognition techniques for diagnostic tools e g environmental monitoring networks early warning systems to improve the management of water resources and decision making processes Describing the entire workflow of a bioindicator system from capture analysis and identification to the determination of quality indices this book provides insights into the current state of the art in automatic identification systems in microscopy Bulletin Van Het Koninklijk
