A Reader in Medical Anthropology Byron J. Good, Michael M. J. Fischer, Sarah S. Willen, Mary-Jo DelVecchio Good, 2010-03-22 A Reader in Medical Anthropology Theoretical Trajectories Emergent Realities brings together articles from the key theoretical approaches in the field of medical anthropology as well as related science and technology studies The editors comprehensive introductions evaluate the historical lineages of these approaches and their value in addressing critical problems associated with contemporary forms of illness experience and health care Presents a key selection of both classic and new agenda setting articles in medical anthropology Provides analytic and historical contextual introductions by leading figures in medical anthropology medical sociology and science and technology studies Critically reviews the contribution of medical anthropology to a new global health movement that is reshaping international health agendas Routledge Handbook of Socio-Legal Theory and Methods Naomi Creutzfeldt, Marc Mason, Kirsten McConnachie, 2019-08-13 Drawing on a range of approaches from the social sciences and humanities this handbook explores theoretical and empirical perspectives that address the articulation of law in society and the social character of the rule of law The vast field of socio legal studies provides multiple lenses through which law can be considered Rather than seeking to define the field of socio legal studies this book takes up the experiences of researchers within the field First hand accounts of socio legal research projects allow the reader to engage with diverse theoretical and methodological approaches within this fluid interdisciplinary area The book provides a rich resource for those interested in deepening their understanding of the variety of theories and methods available when law is studied in its broadest social context as well as setting those within the history of the socio legal movement The chapters consider multiple disciplinary lenses including feminism anthropology and sociology as well as a variety of methodologies including narrative visual and spatial psychological economic and epidemiological approaches Moreover these are applied in a range of substantive contexts such as online hate speech environmental law biotechnology research in post conflict situations race and LGBT lawyers The handbook brings together younger contributors and some of the best known names in the socio legal field It offers a fresh perspective on the past present and future of sociolegal studies that will appeal to students and scholars with relevant interests in a range of subjects including law sociology and politics Chapter 7 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4 0 license Radical Human Centricity Paul Hartley, 2022-08-09 There is a problem with innovation research Many of the methods used to study people for strategic and design innovation purposes are not up to the task They are holdovers from market research or are simplified versions of tools borrowed from other fields of research The problem exists because these methods cannot provide the kind of understanding or grounding in people s lived experience to meet the requirements of design and strategy innovation The world is only becoming more complicated and innovation s impacts on people s lives and the environment are only increasing It is essential we work to fulfill the promises of human centered research with better research practices and create positive interventions into people s lives while resisting the reductionist damaging and wasteful tendencies of design thinking research and human centered design HCD This book critiques many of the common methods used in innovation research and provides directions to overcome their weaknesses by developing a radical human centric approach Routledge International Handbook of Police Ethnography Jenny Fleming, Sarah Charman, 2023-01-31 Ethnography has a long history in the humanities and social sciences and has provided the base line in the field of police studies for over 60 years We have recently witnessed a resurgence in ethnographic practice among police scholars and this Handbook is a response to that revival. Students and academics are returning to the ethnography arena and the study of police in situ to explain the evocative worlds of the police. The list of ethnographic sites is vast and all have fed the rejuvenation of ethnographic endeavour. Together they suggest innovation, theoretical depth, broad geographical boundaries, multi-site experiments and multi-disciplinarity, all of which are central to the exploration of police and policing in the twenty-first century. This Handbook encapsulates the revival of police ethnography by exploring its multidisciplinary field and cataloguing the ongoing ethnographic work. It offers an original and international contribution to the field of police studies and research methods, providing a comprehensive and overarching guide to police ethnography. We see the previous classics in every page and still note the influence of the early ethnographers. At the same time, we see the innovative breadth and diversity of these narratives. The aim of this Handbook is to highlight the mosaic that is police ethnography at a point in time and note with pleasure its contribution to the field once more. Ethnography may be messy, difficult and at times uncooperative, but its results offer a unique insight into the perspectives of people and organisations that can hide in plain sight. An accessible and compelling read, this Handbook will provide a sound and essential reference source for academics, researchers, students and practitioners engaged in police and criminal justice studies. Genocide Alexander Laban Hinton, Kevin Lewis O'Neill, 2009-04-07. Leading anthropologists consider issues of truth, memory and representation in the aftermath of genocides in the Balkans, Guatemala, Indonesia, East Timor, Germany, Nigeria, Rwanda and Sudan. Xenolinguistics Douglas A. Vakoch, Jeffrey Punske, 2023-09-06. Xenolinguistics brings together biologists, anthropologists, linguists and other experts specializing in language and communication to explore what non-human, non-Earthbound language might look like. The 18 chapters examine what is known about human language and animal communication systems to provide reasonable hypotheses about what we may find if we encounter non-Earth intelligence. Showcasing an interdisciplinary dialogue between a set of highly established scholars, this volume clarifies what is and is not known about human language and animal communication systems. Presents speculative arguments as a philosophical exercise to help define the boundaries of what our current science can tell us about non-speculative areas of investigation. Provides readers with a clearer sense of how our knowledge about language is better informed through a cross-disciplinary investigation. Offers a better understanding of future avenues of research on language. This rich interdisciplinary collection, with chapter authors including Noam Chomsky, Derek Ball, Denise Herzing and Irene Pepperberg, will be of interest to researchers and students studying non-human communication, astrobiology and language invention. Anthropological Fieldwork Dimitrina Spencer, James Peter Davies, 2010. Exploring the emotions of anthropologists arising during fieldwork and their role in how we gain ethnographic knowledge, this book explains how they manage emotions or allow them to unfold as vehicles of knowing. Human Societies Mark Q. Sutton, 2025-05-28. Human Societies: A Brief Introduction succinctly covers the basic concepts of cultural anthropology in a way that is relevant and engaging to the introductory student Less time is spent on anthropological detail and more time on the relevance of anthropological understanding to the contemporary world The issues facing the contemporary Western world are also confronting the thousands of other societies The book deals with topics such as the variety of sexualities the thousands of religions how people adapt to their environments the ways people organize themselves the multitude of foods and cuisines adaptations to climate change refugees and migrants and the many different approaches to reproduction all topics to which students should already be generally aware Included are succinct chapters discussing personality adaptation social political and economic organization food and diet sex and gender religion and ritual and change and development The book also includes short Spotlight boxes that enlighten the reader about specific topics of interest as well as chapter summaries exercises key terms and a comprehensive glossary Human Societies A Brief Introduction is essential reading for undergraduate students taking their first steps into cultural and applied anthropology
