Ethico-Legal Evaluation of the Moral Principles Involved in the use of Reproductive Technologies in the Creation of Saviour Siblings Sara Vincenzotti,2020-07-09 Essay from the year 2020 in the subject Philosophy Practical Ethics

Aesthetics Culture Nature Right University of Manchester language English abstract This essay will evaluate the moral principles which are engaged in the creation of compatible sibling donors specifically for providing treatment to existing children I will explain why using reproductive technology as a means to this end has no ethical standing In order to achieve this I will use deontological moral theories to defend the medico legal principle of personal autonomy and to rebut that of procreative autonomy Compatible sibling donors hereafter noted as saviour siblings not only lack legal definition but also cause a deep divide between members of Parliament and the Courts This is because the concept of them causes a struggle between two substantial principles procreative autonomy and personal autonomy I will argue throughout this essay that while there is no doubt that the creation of saviour siblings can bring about a positive end result by helping existing sick children this utilitarian argument cannot trump the serious ethical issues which simultaneously arise Nursing Ethics:
