English, 2022-10-13 This Handbook explores the discourse within the field of educational leadership and management It provides a clear analysis of the current field as well as older foundational ideas and newer concepts which are beginning to permeate the discussion The field of educational leadership and management has long acknowledged that educational contexts include a variety of leaders beyond school principals and other school officials such as informal and middle level leaders By looking at the knowledge dynamic rather than a static knowledge base this Handbook allows research to be presented in its multidimensional evolving reality

Neoliberal Selfhood Stephen Vassallo, 2020-12-17 Psychological constructs such as emotion regulation creativity grit growth mindset lifelong learning and whole child are appealing as pedagogical aspirations and outcomes Researchers policy makers and educators are likely to endorse and accept these constructs as ways to make sense of students and inform pedagogical decision making Few critically interrogate these constructs as they are associated with students academic achievement psychological well being civic virtue and career readiness However this book shows how these constructs become entangled in a neoliberal vision of selfhood which is tied to market prescriptions and is thus associated with problematic ethical psychological moral and economic consequences The chapters draw attention to the ideological underpinnings in order to facilitate conversations about selfhood in schooling policy and practices

Segregation by Experience Jennifer Keys Adair, Kiyomi Sánchez-Suzuki Colegrove, 2021-05-03 Early childhood can be a time of rich discovery a period when educators have an opportunity to harness their students' fascination to create unique learning opportunities. Some teachers engage with their students' ideas in ways that make learning collaborative, but not all students have access to these kinds of learning environments. In Segregation by Experience, the authors filmed and studied a first grade classroom led by a Black immigrant teacher who encouraged her diverse group of students to exercise their agency. When the researchers showed the film to other schools, everyone struggled. Educators admired the teacher but didn't think her practices would work with their own Black and brown students. Parents of color, many of them immigrants, liked many of the practices but worried that they would compromise their children. And the young children who viewed the film thought that the kids in the film were terrible loud and badly behaved; they told the authors that learning was supposed to be quiet, still, and obedient. In Segregation by Experience, Jennifer Keys Adair and Kiyomi S. Nchez Suzuki Colegrove show us just how much our expectations of children of color affect what and how they learn at school and they ask us to consider which children get to have sophisticated dynamic learning experiences at school and which children are denied such experiences because of our continued racist assumptions about them.

Capitalism, Pedagogy, and the Politics of Being Noah De Lissovoy, 2022-03-24 Reframing central categories in Western critical thought, this book investigates the relationship between capitalism and coloniality in society and education and reconceptualizes emancipatory theory and pedagogy in response. De Lissovoy exposes a logic of violation at the heart of capitalist accumulation and argues that we need to attend to ontological and epistemological orders of domination within which subjectivity takes shape. Systematically bridging the theoretical traditions of Marxism, Latin American decolonial thought, and critical pedagogy, De Lissovoy shows how a new critical imaginary can reorder curriculum in schools and other educational spaces, organize a form of learning beyond the capitalist imperatives of imposition and exploitation, and reconstruct pedagogical relationships in the mode of a decolonial and democratic commons.

Marxisms and Education Noah De Lissovoy, 2019-07-23 Beginning from the premise that a range of Marxist theoretical tendencies or Marxisms inform recent critical scholarship in education, this volume reaffirms, rearticulates, and interrogates central philosophical and practical commitments in this tradition. Chapters engage important issues confronting the field in the present conjuncture in global capitalism, including the meaning of democratic education, neoliberalism's ideological and material assault on teaching and learning, relationships between race and class in schooling, and society models for critical and emancipatory pedagogy, the implication of education in imperialism and colonialism, and links between education and revolutionary organizations and movements. Rather than attempting to provide a comprehensive view of the field, this volume presents a diverse set of crucial interventions that take up foundational as well as contemporary developments in Marxist theory and consider their implications for the field of education. The chapters in this book were originally published as journal articles by Taylor and Francis.

centrality of the economic sphere influences the nature of the knowledge presented in specific content areas Given that language constrains as well as advances human thought the twin tasks of de economizing education and decolonizing society will require a vocabulary that transcends the familiar terminologies addressed in Parts I and II The entries in Part III cultivate the beginnings of such a vocabulary as the authors elucidate innovative concepts which they view as central to the creation of truly alternative educational visions and practices
