11. Answer: A—The passage states that the "most common" type of "cancer" is "lung cancer." The passage also states that "lung cancer is the leading cause of cancer death in the United States."

- These two groups are important in the retail and bulk goods export sector. These companies contribute to the revenue of the state. It is worth noting that the companies of Alfa and Polla and Italpolla have no competitors. The Alfa group in itself, apart from its export activities to the United States, exports its products, especially for the United States, and the original distribution is not missing. It is also quite notable that the Virginia-based company exports its products to the United States and other parts with a very high rate. The two companies have no competitors in Europe and the United States.
