

Evidence check

25 April 2021

These evidence checks are based on a simplified review method and they can be overly cautious. Not every article is included, particularly if it is clearly flawed, or a specific principle or theme. This paper may not be up-to-date, relevant and should not be used for individual clinical judgement. This is a critical intelligence unit of NCIH output.

Immunocompromised patients and COVID-19 vaccines

Evidence check question

What is the evidence on COVID-19 vaccination for immunocompromised patients including risks and adverse events, efficacy and safety from professional colleagues?

In brief

- Evidence on COVID-19 vaccination in immunocompromised patients is limited. Small studies suggest that immunosuppression may be associated with attenuated immune responses to SARS-CoV-2 in some patients after the first (1, 2) and second vaccine dose (4, 7).
  - A post-peer review publication in immunodeficient patients showed that some patients had significantly lower SARS-CoV-2 IgG antibody titres than healthy control patients 21 days after vaccination with BNT162b2 (3).
  - These studies (including one post-peer review in kidney transplant recipients) found immunocompromised patients have a lower anti-SARS-CoV-2 antibody response after vaccination (1, 3, 7).
  - A study of solid organ transplant recipients observed expected, typically mild, common post-vaccine reactivity after the first dose, similar to expected rates in non-organ transplant recipients (5).
  - In patients with chronic inflammatory diseases, messenger ribonucleic acid (mRNA) vaccines result in development of antibodies without interferon- $\alpha$  side effects or induction of disease flares. However, immunoglobulin G titres were significantly lower compared with controls (6).
  - In patients with rheumatic and musculoskeletal diseases, most participants (78%) had adequate anti-SARS-CoV-2 antibodies. However, patients on regimens including methotrexate or rituximab were less likely to develop an antibody response (8).
- One systematic review found inclusion of people with immunocompromised kidney disease in completed and ongoing COVID-19 vaccine trials was very low (9). Thus, vaccine immunogenicity is largely unknown (10).
