Standard Deviations Gary Smith, 2014-07-31 How statistical data is used misused and abused every day to fool us A very entertaining book about a very serious problem Robert J Shiller winner of the Nobel Prize in Economics and author of Irrational Exuberance Did you know that baseball players whose names begin with D are more likely to die young That Asian Americans are most susceptible to heart attacks on the fourth day of the month That drinking a full pot of coffee every morning adds years to your life but one cup a day increases your pancreatic cancer risk These facts have been argued with a straight face by credentialed researchers and backed up with reams of data and convincing statistics As Nobel Prize winning economist Ronald Coase cynically observed If you torture data long enough it will confess Lying with statistics is a time honored con In Standard Deviations economics professor Gary Smith walks us through the various tricks and traps that people use to back up their own crackpot theories Sometimes the unscrupulous deliberately try to mislead us Other times the well intentioned are blissfully unaware of the mischief they are committing Today data is so plentiful that researchers spend precious little time distinguishing between good meaningful indicators and total rubbish Not only do others use data to fool us we fool ourselves Drawing on breakthrough research in behavioral economics and using clear examples Standard Deviations demystifies the science behind statistics and makes it easy to spot the fraud all around us An entertaining primer packed with figures tables graphs and ludicrous examples from people who know better academics scientists and those who don't political candidates advertisers Kirkus Reviews starred review
